

Average House Prices by Region in England (2015 - 2026)

House Price Growth by Region in England (2015 - 2025)

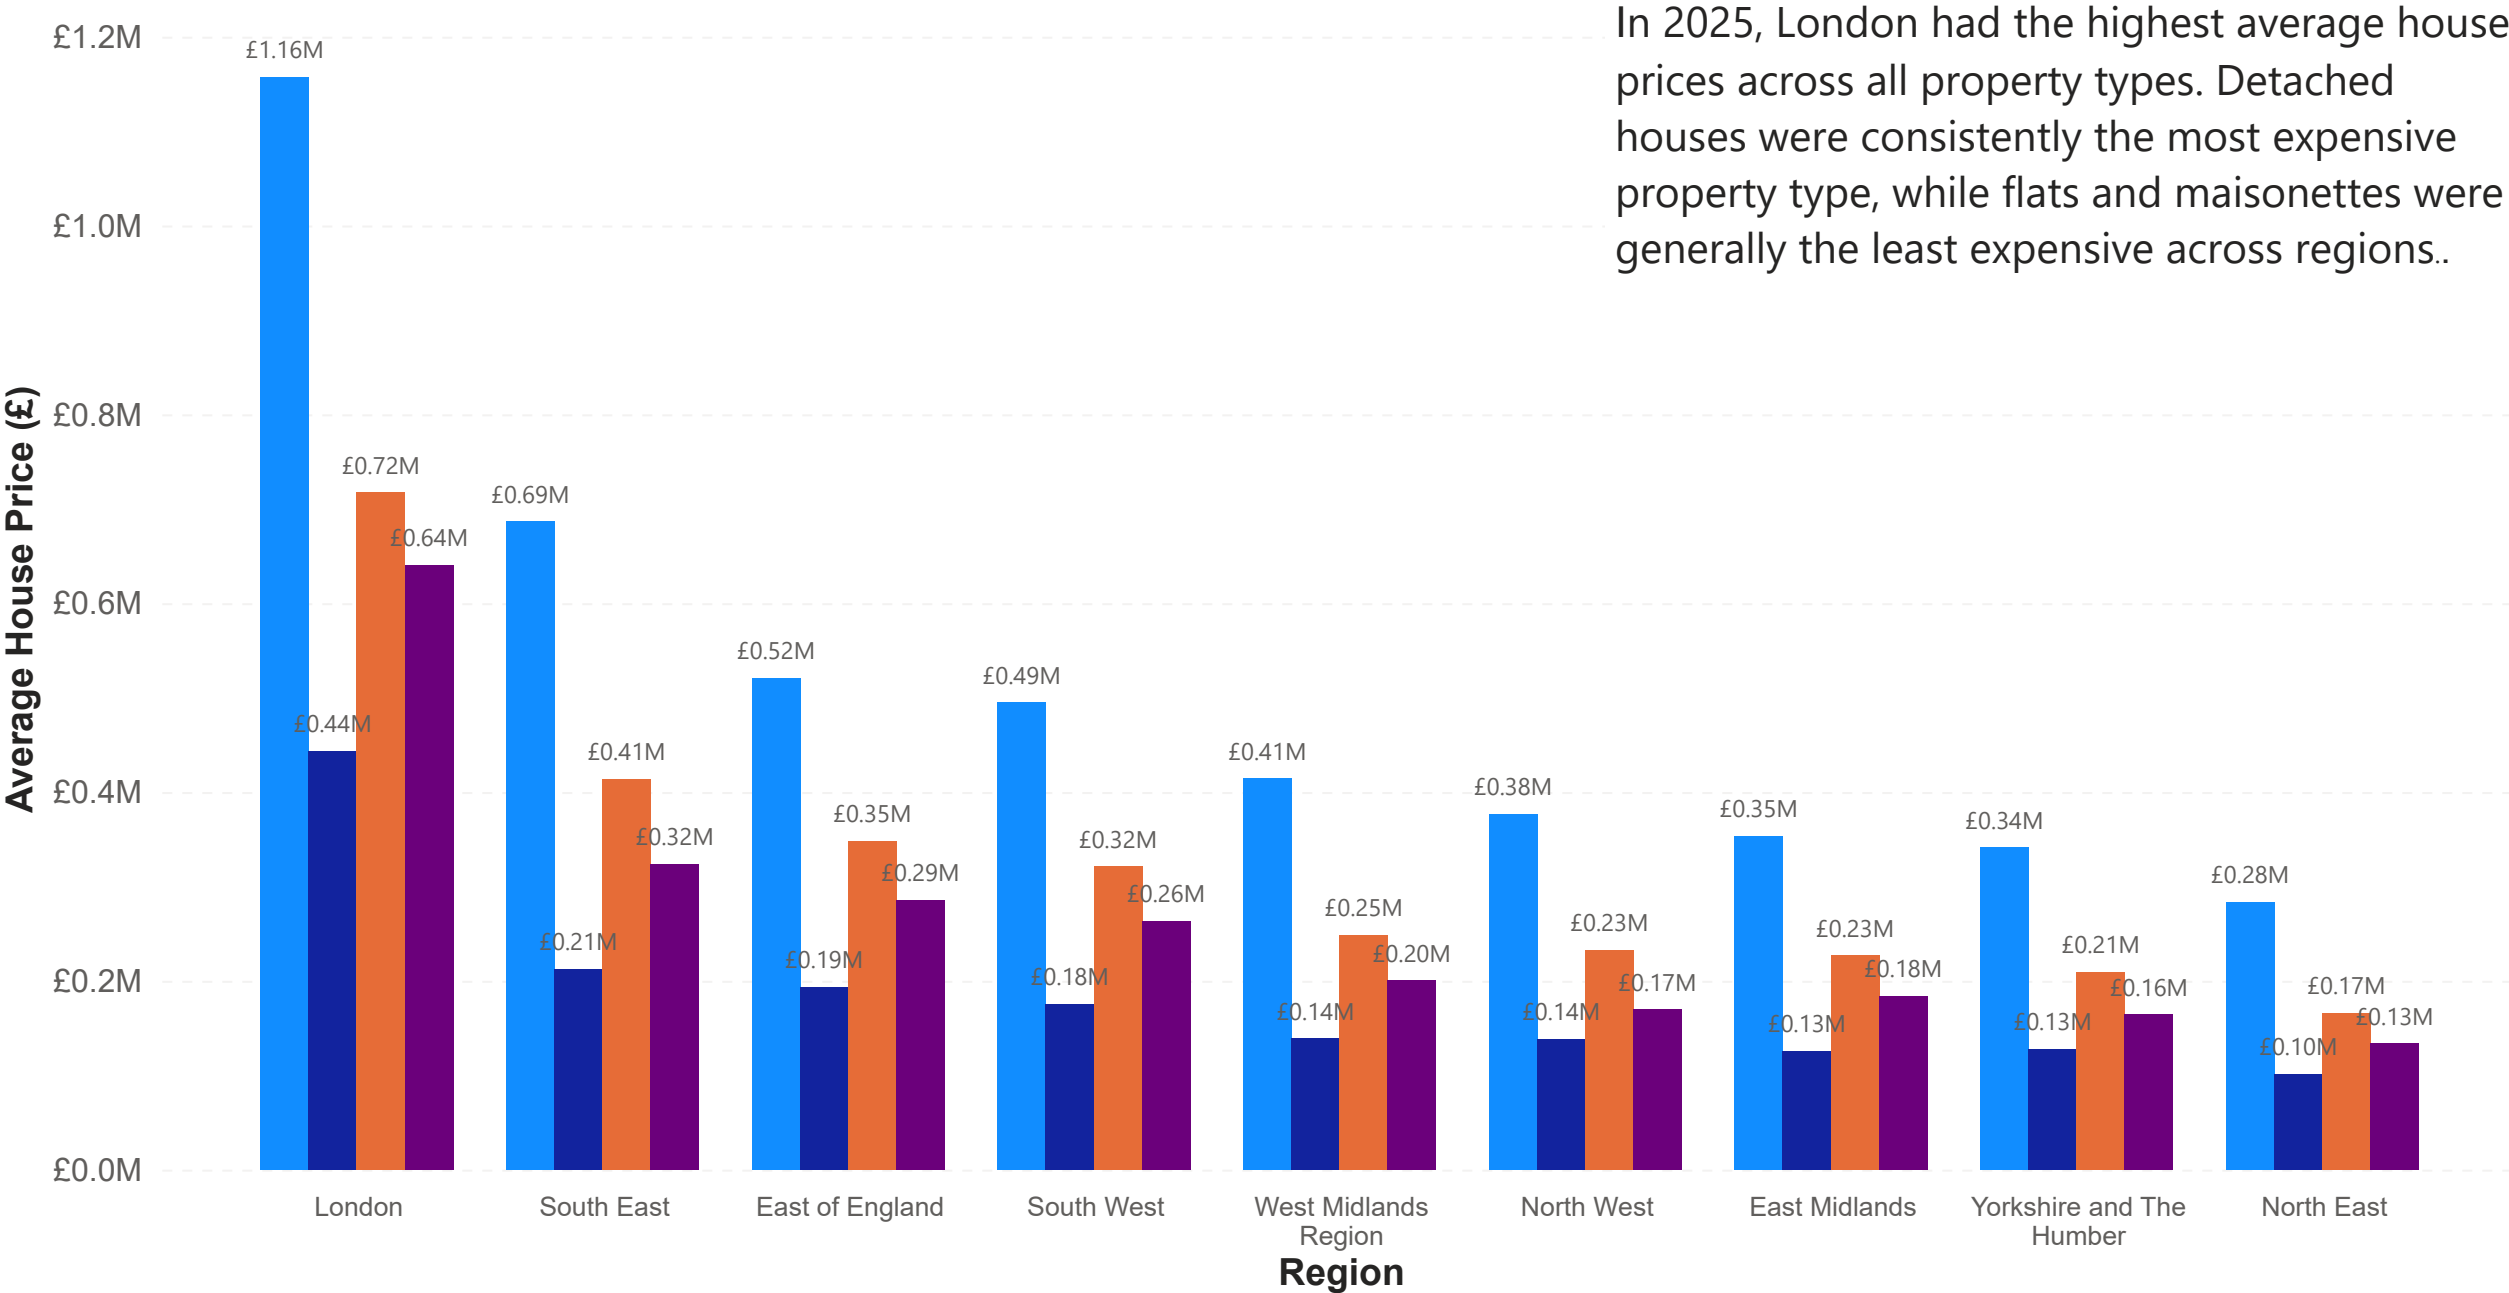

Monthly House Price Volatility by Region in England (2015 - 2026)

Average House Prices by Property Type and Region in England (2025)

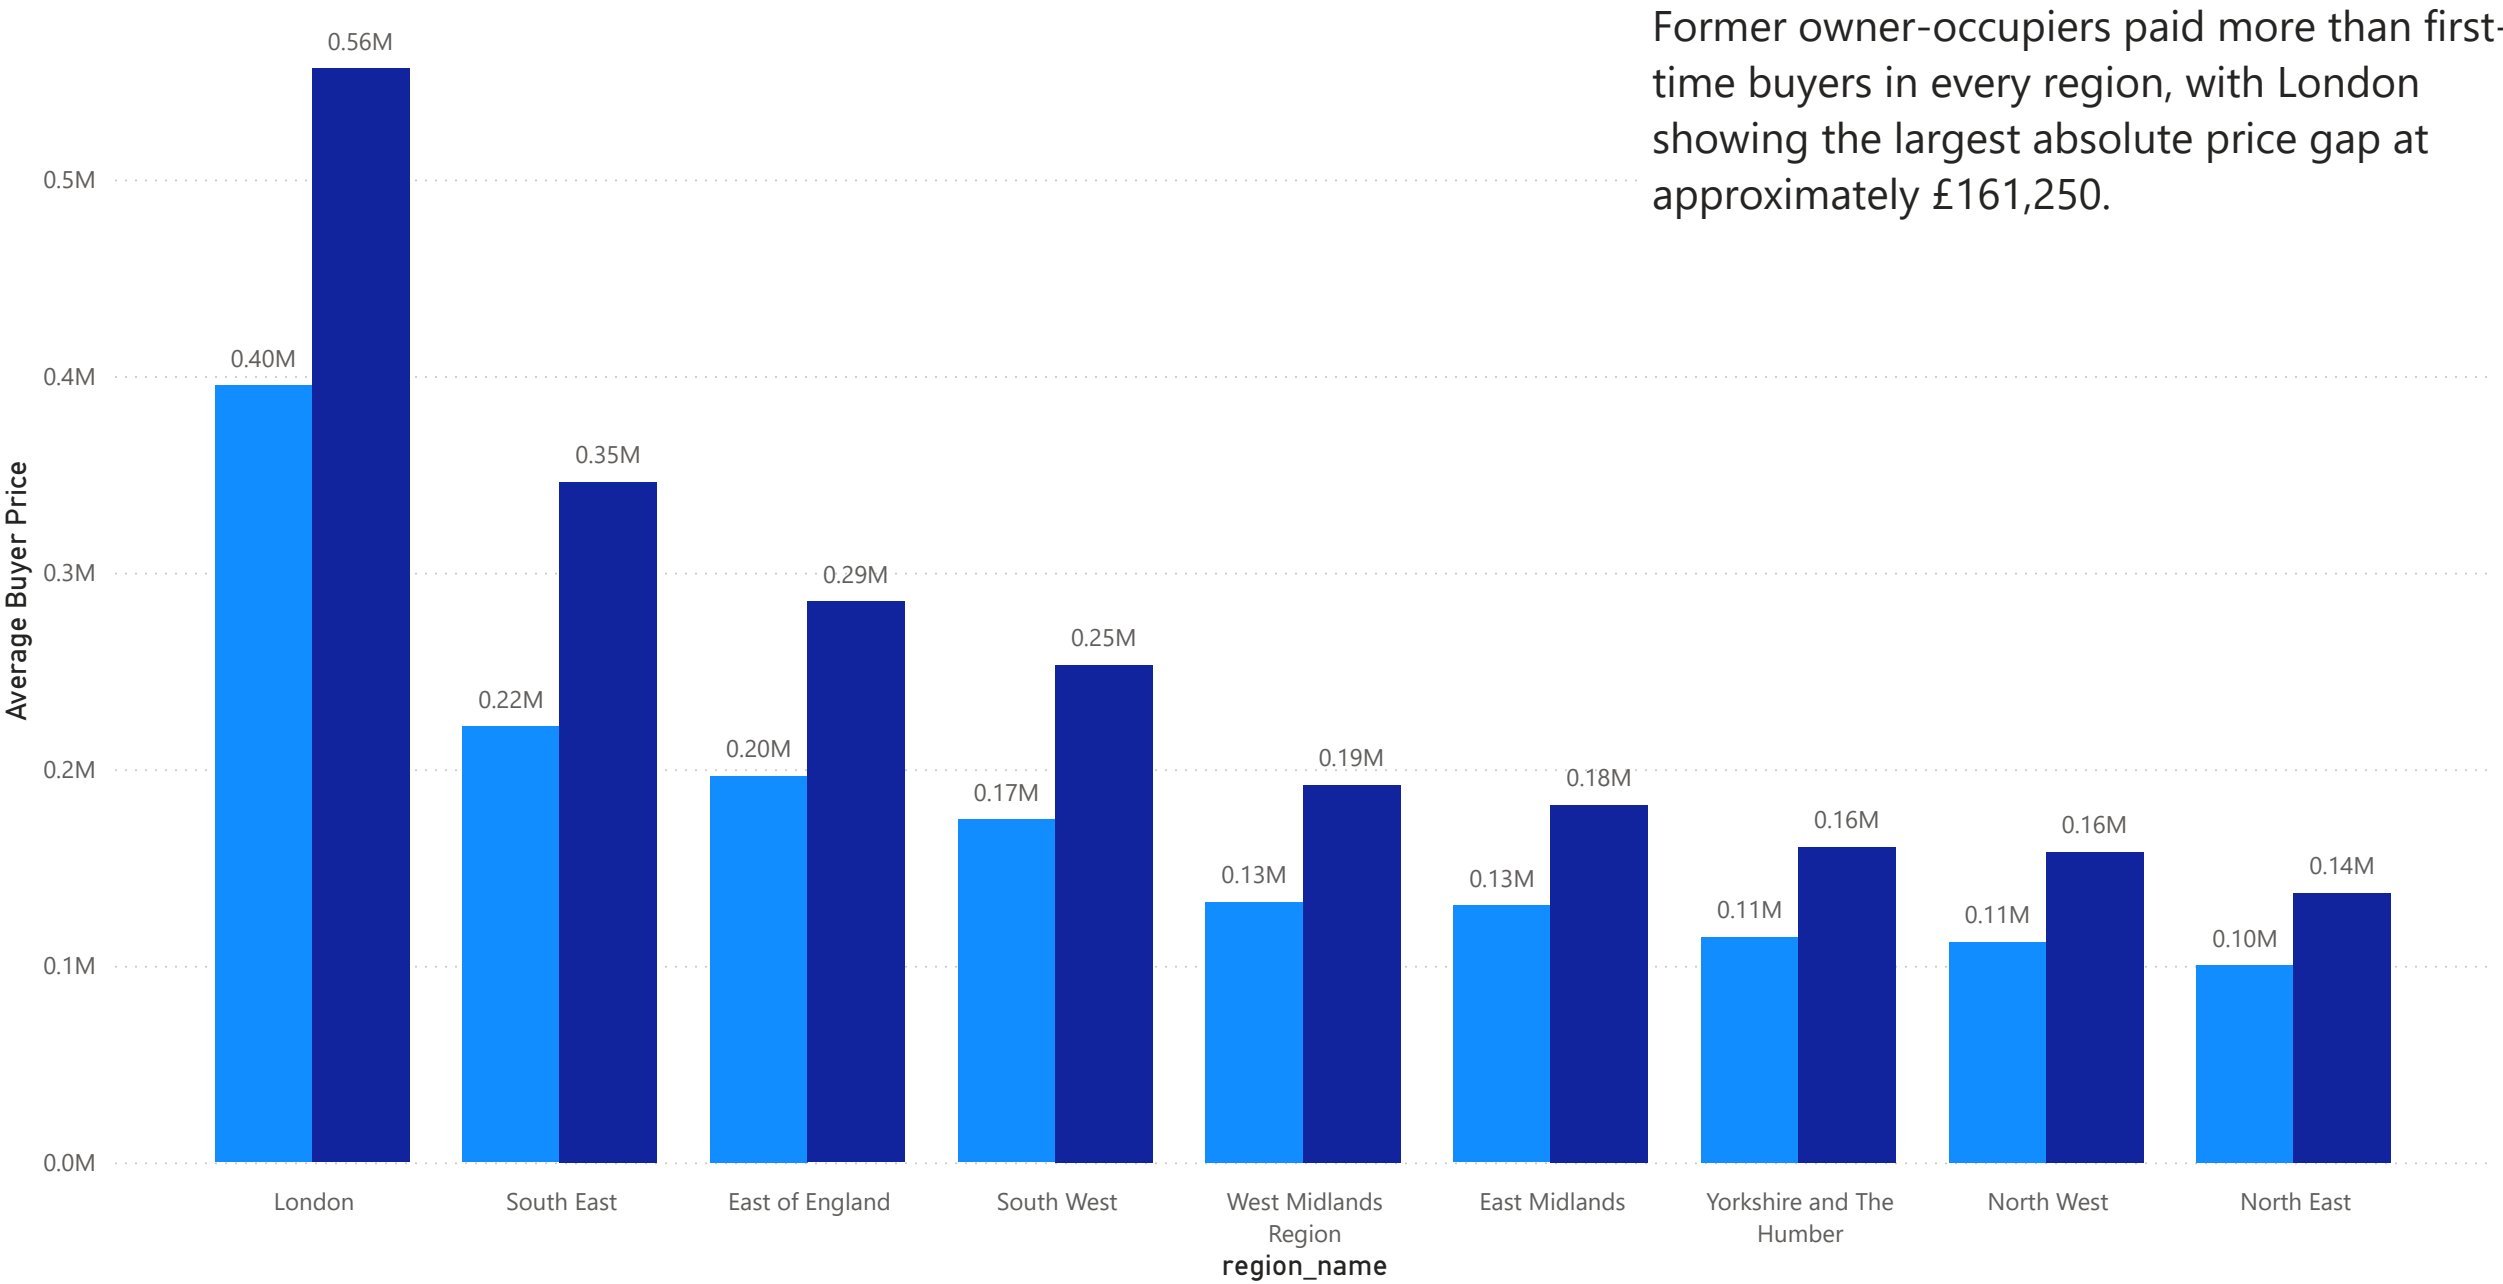

property_type_name ● Detached Houses ● Flats and Maisonettes ● Semi-Detached Houses ● Terraced Houses

In 2025, London had the highest average house prices across all property types. Detached houses were consistently the most expensive property type, while flats and maisonettes were generally the least expensive across regions..

Average Buyer Price by Region Name and Buyer Type Name

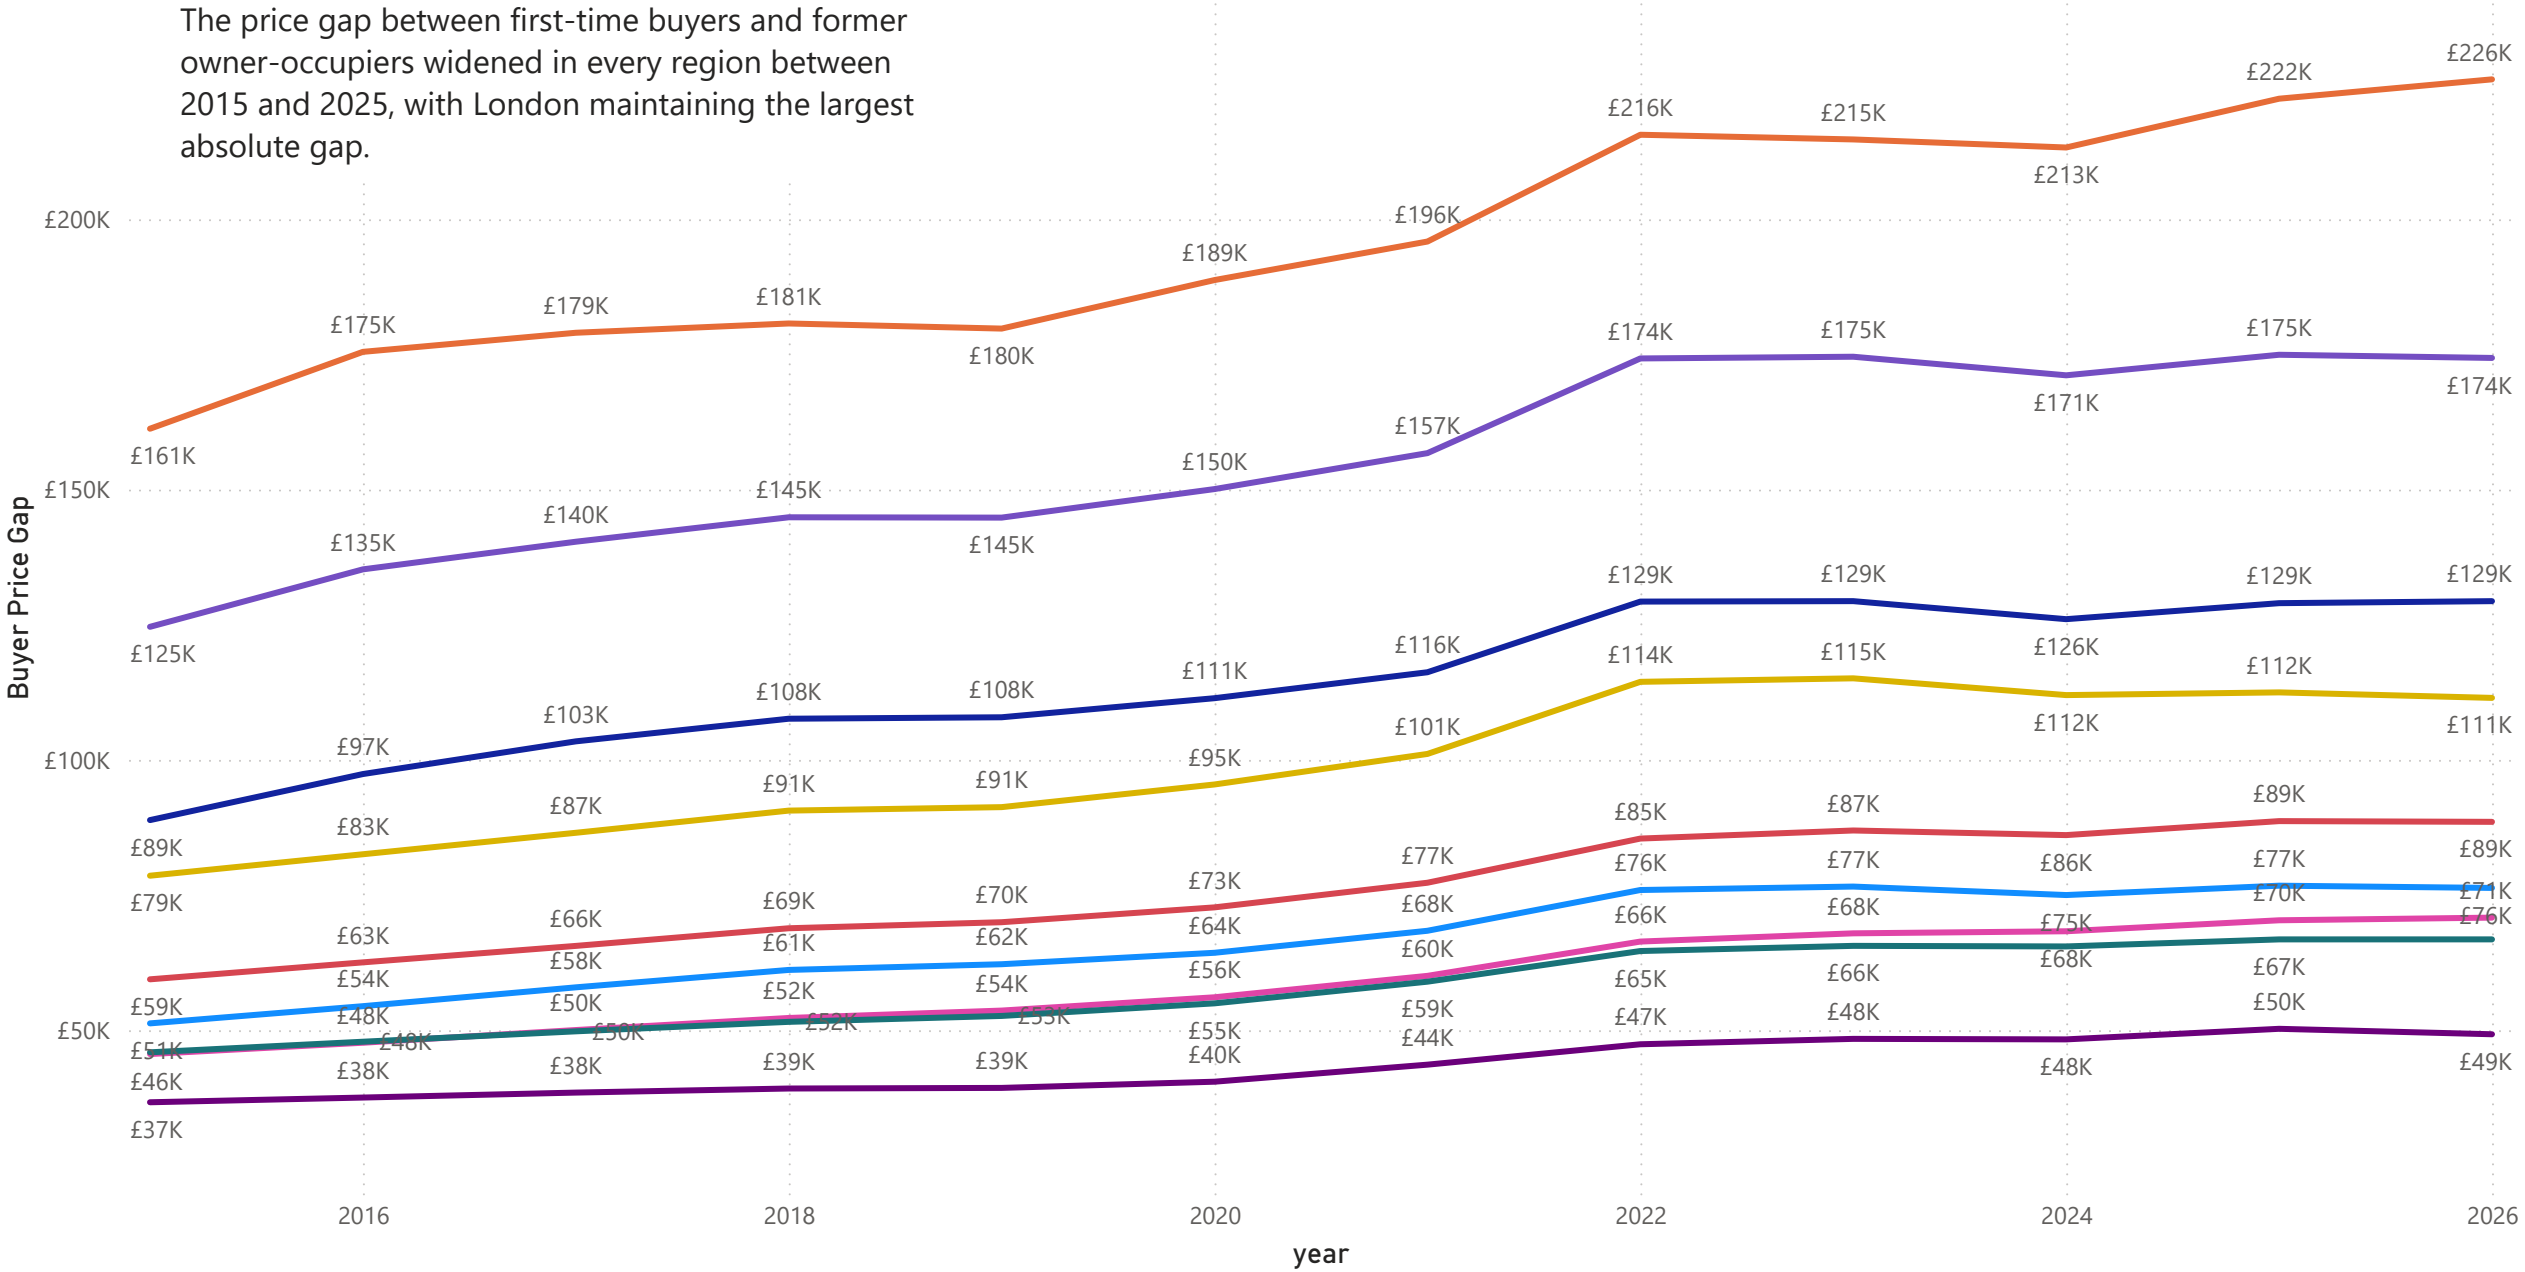

buyer_type_name ● First-Time Buyers ● Former Owner-Occupiers

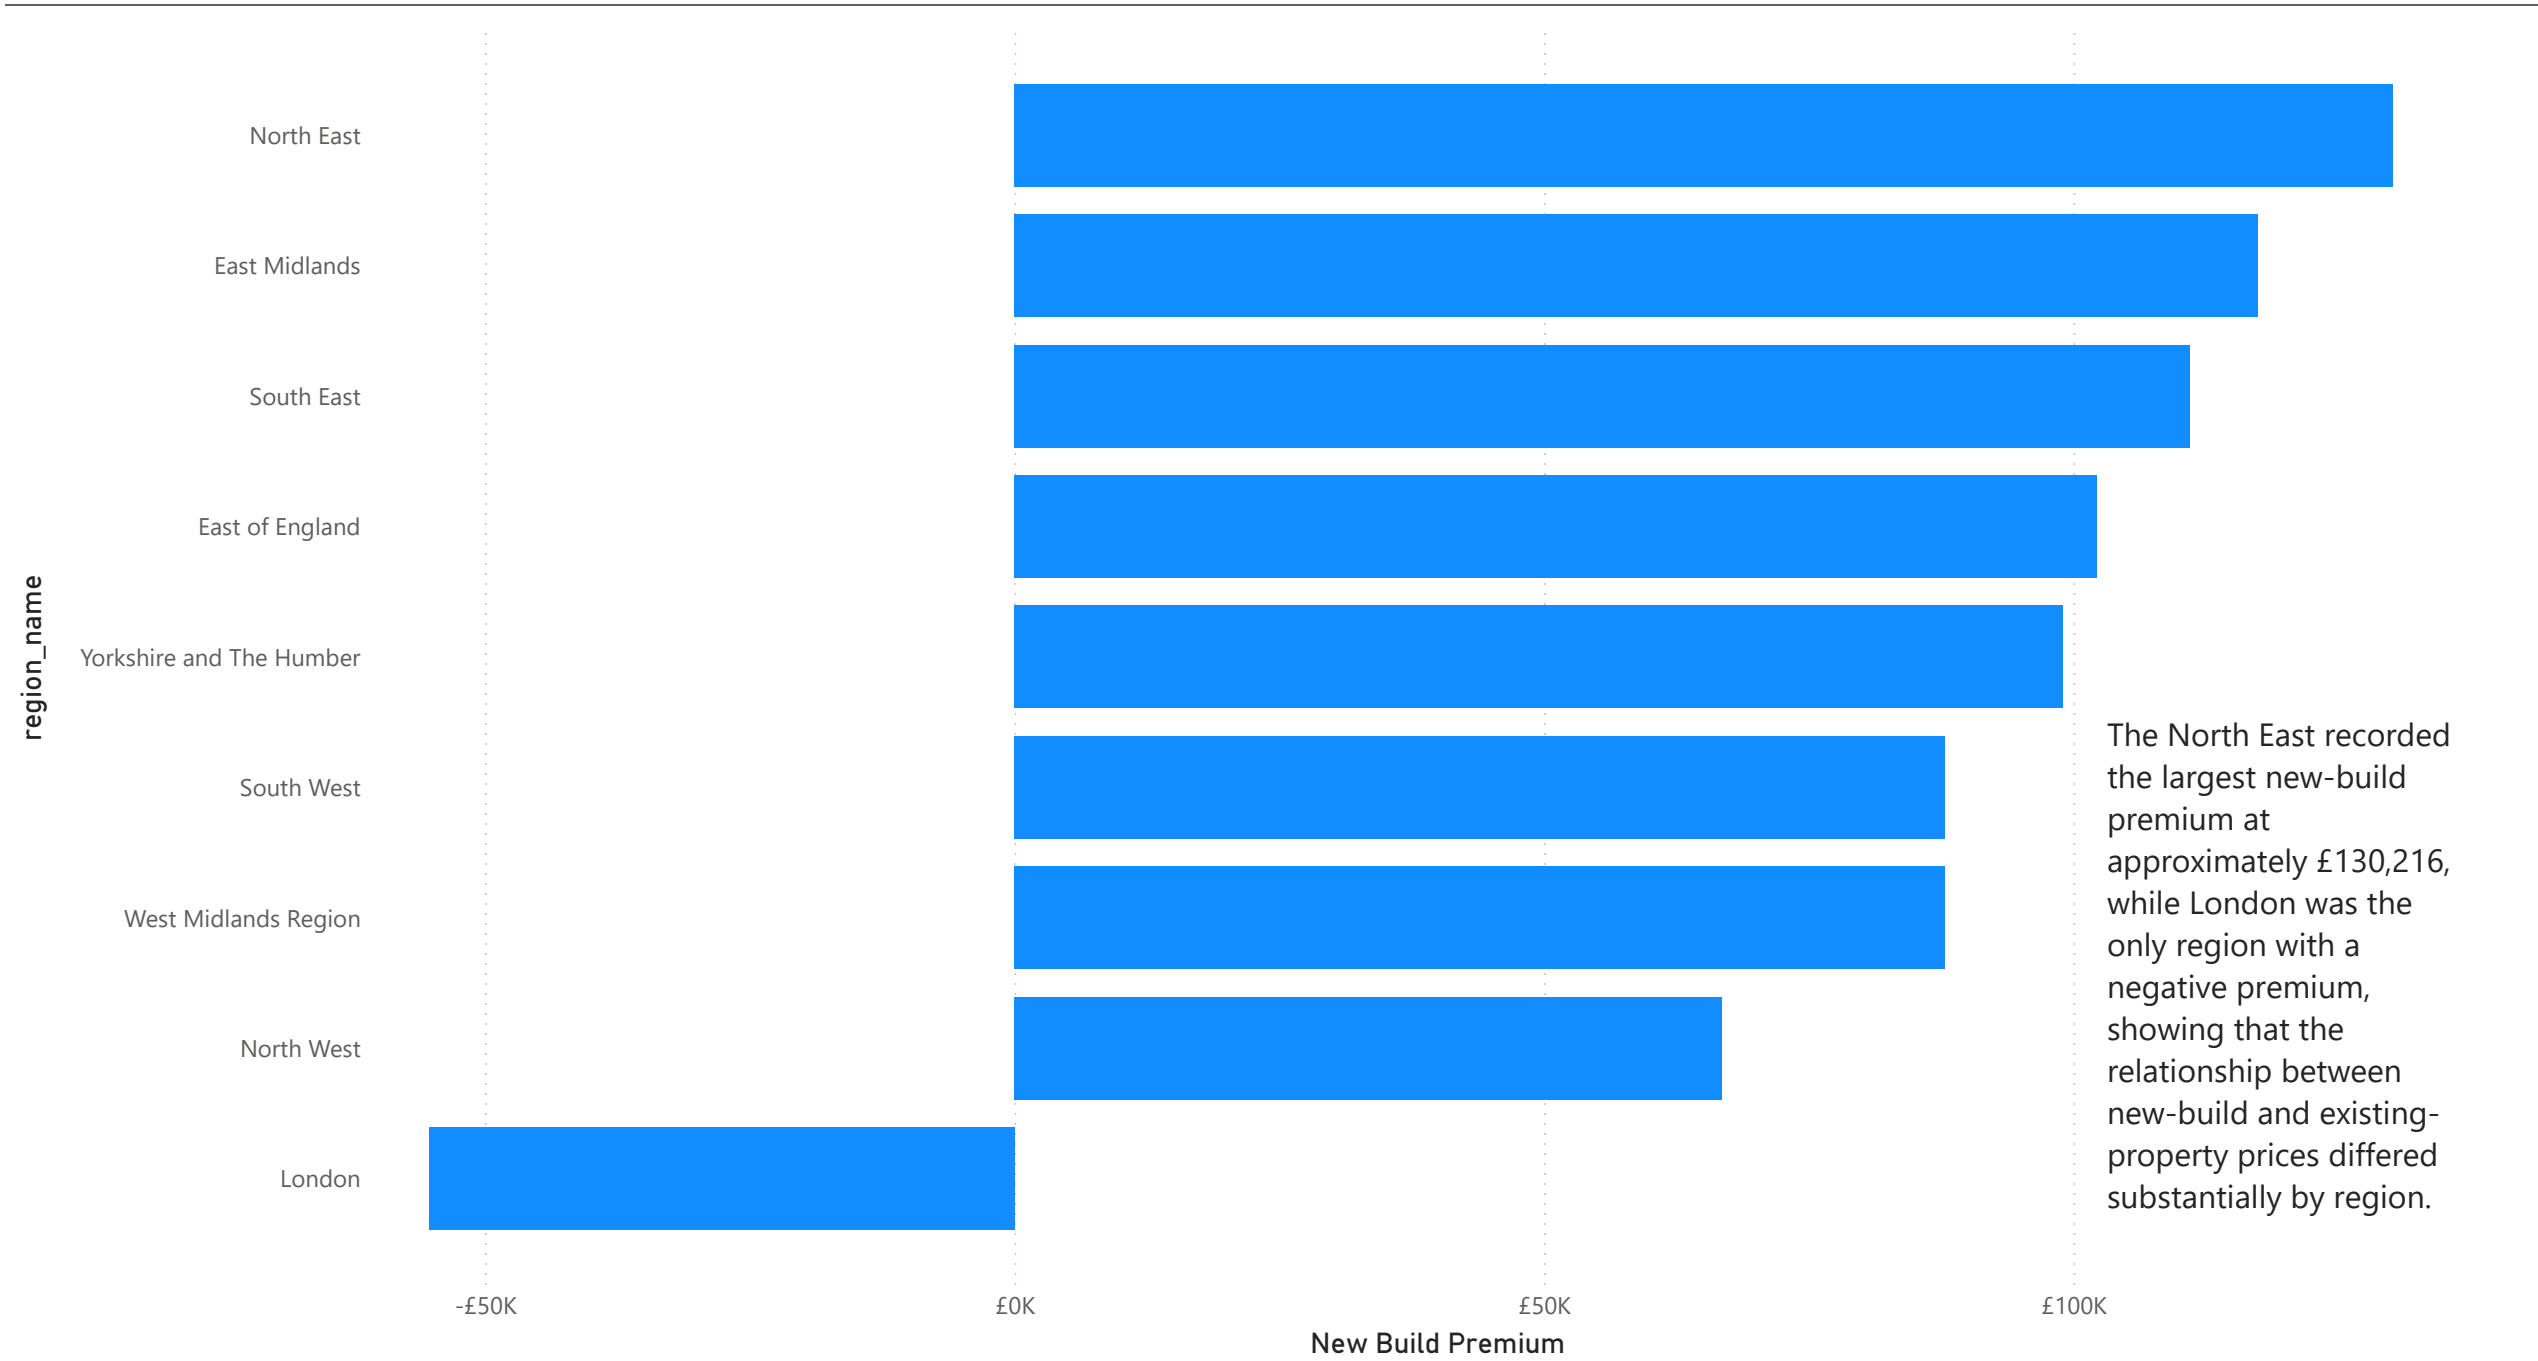

Buyer Price Gap by Region in England (2015 - 2025)

region_name ● East Midlands ● East of England ● London ● North East ● North West ● South East ● South West ● West Midlands Region ● Yorkshire and The Humber

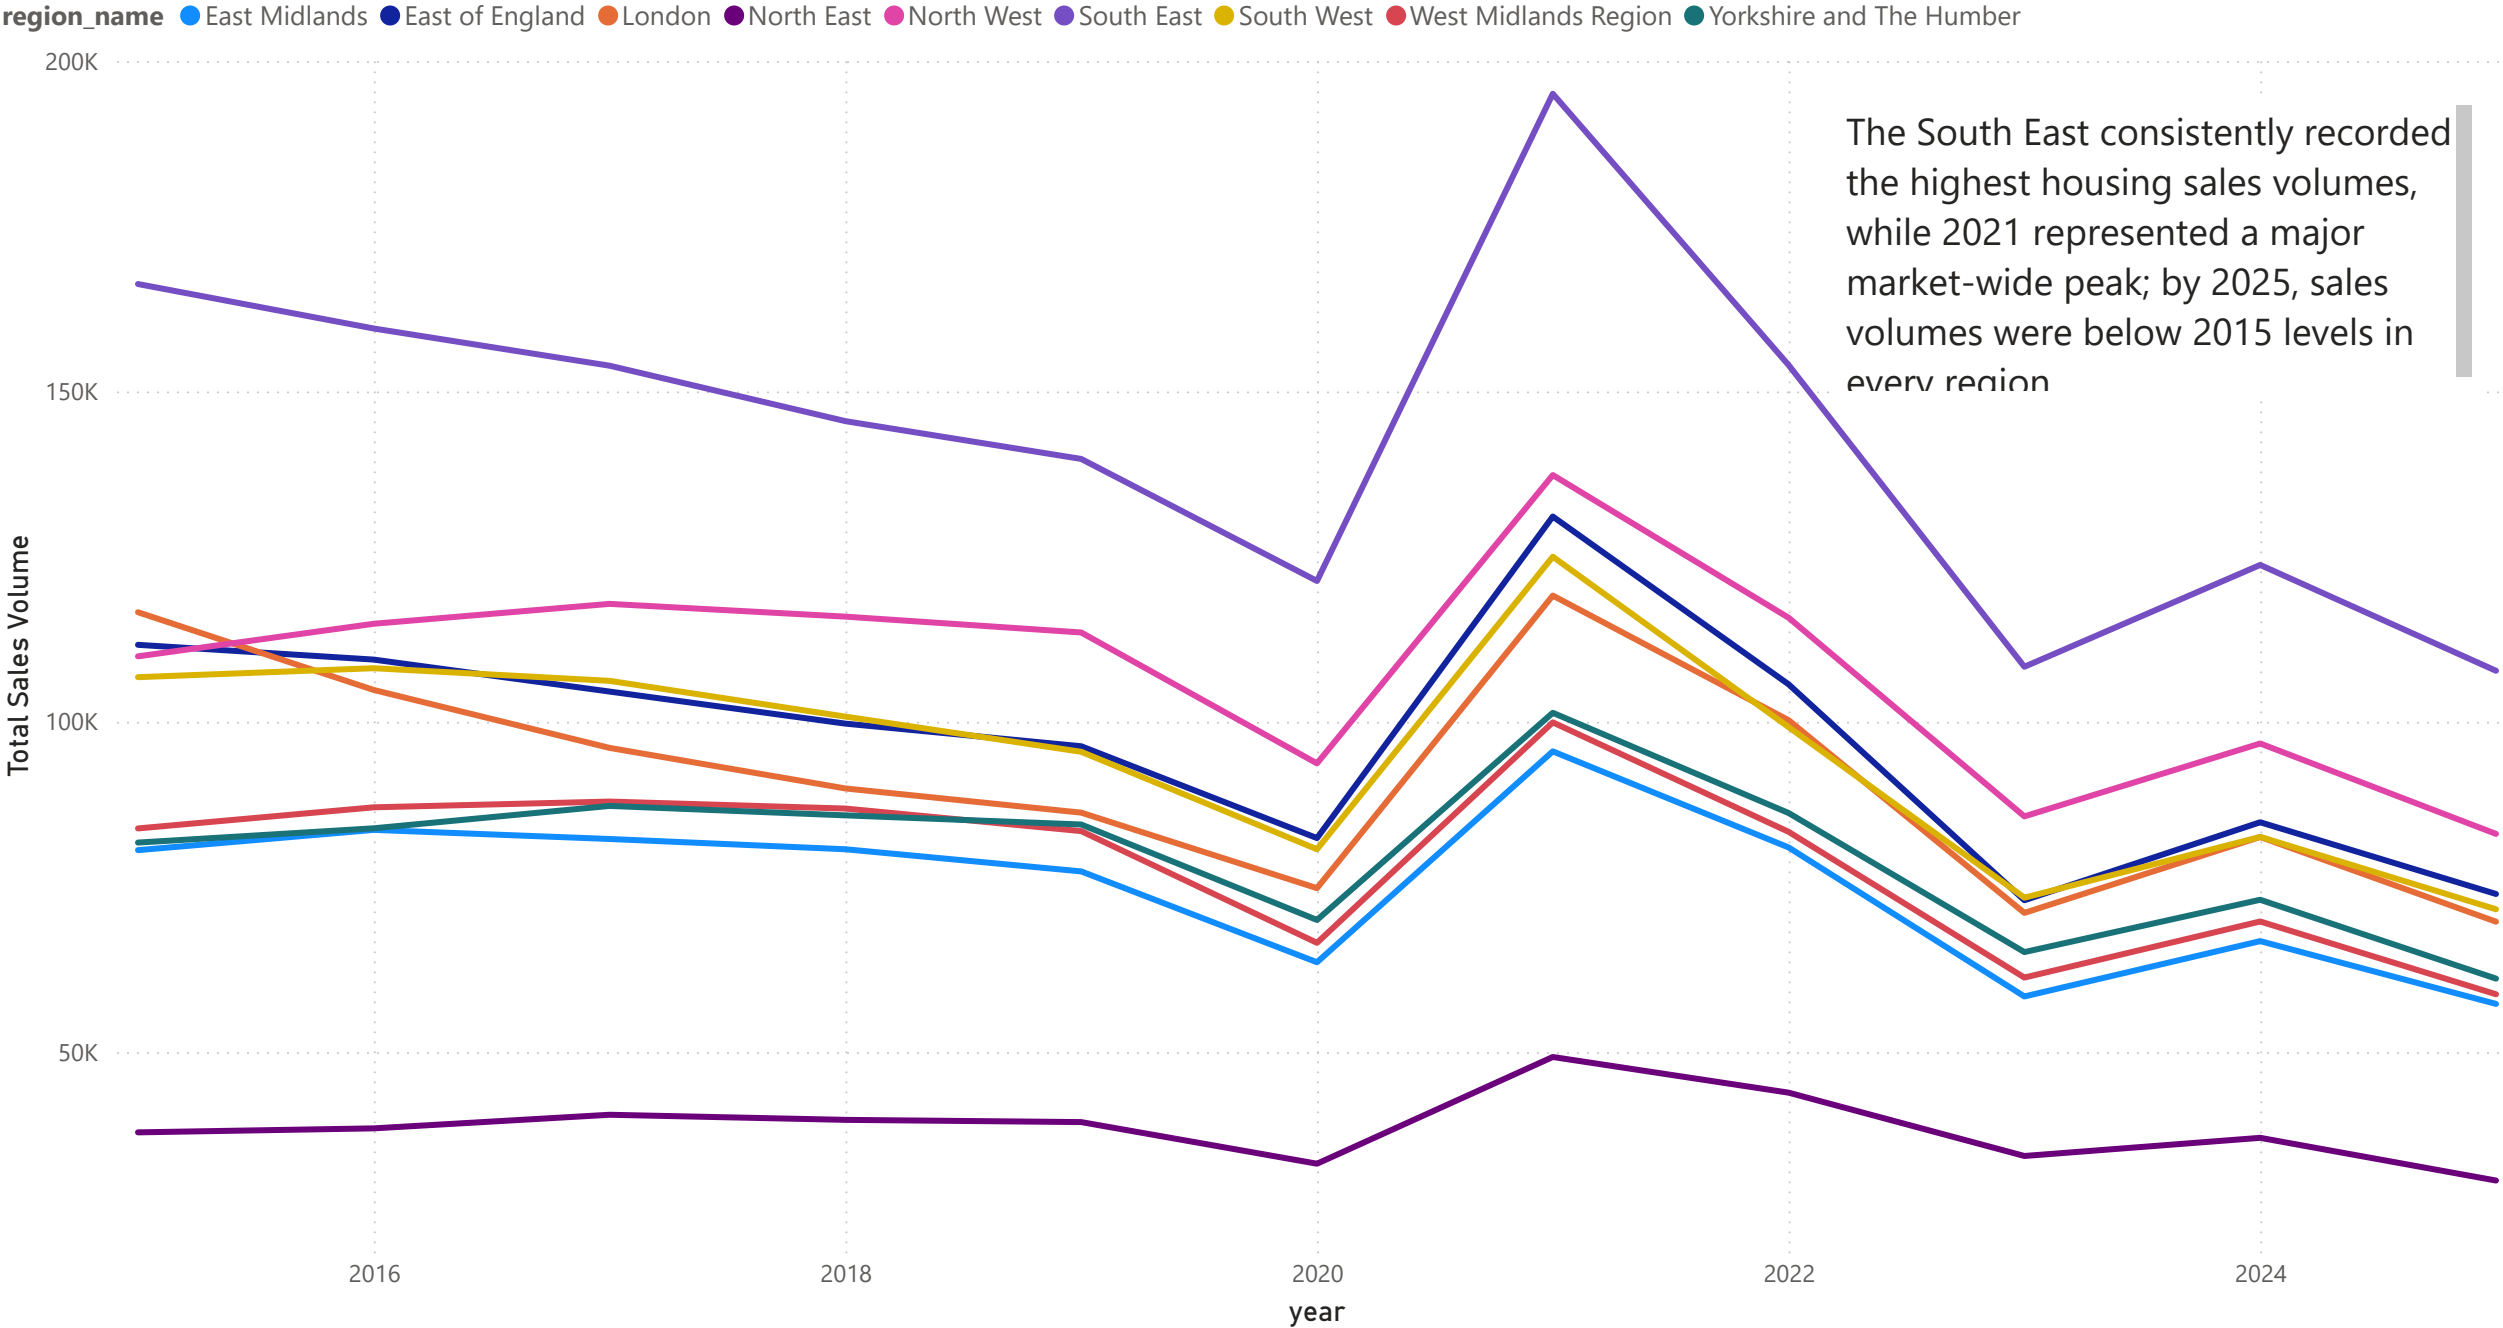

The price gap between first-time buyers and former owner-occupiers widened in every region between 2015 and 2025, with London maintaining the largest absolute gap.

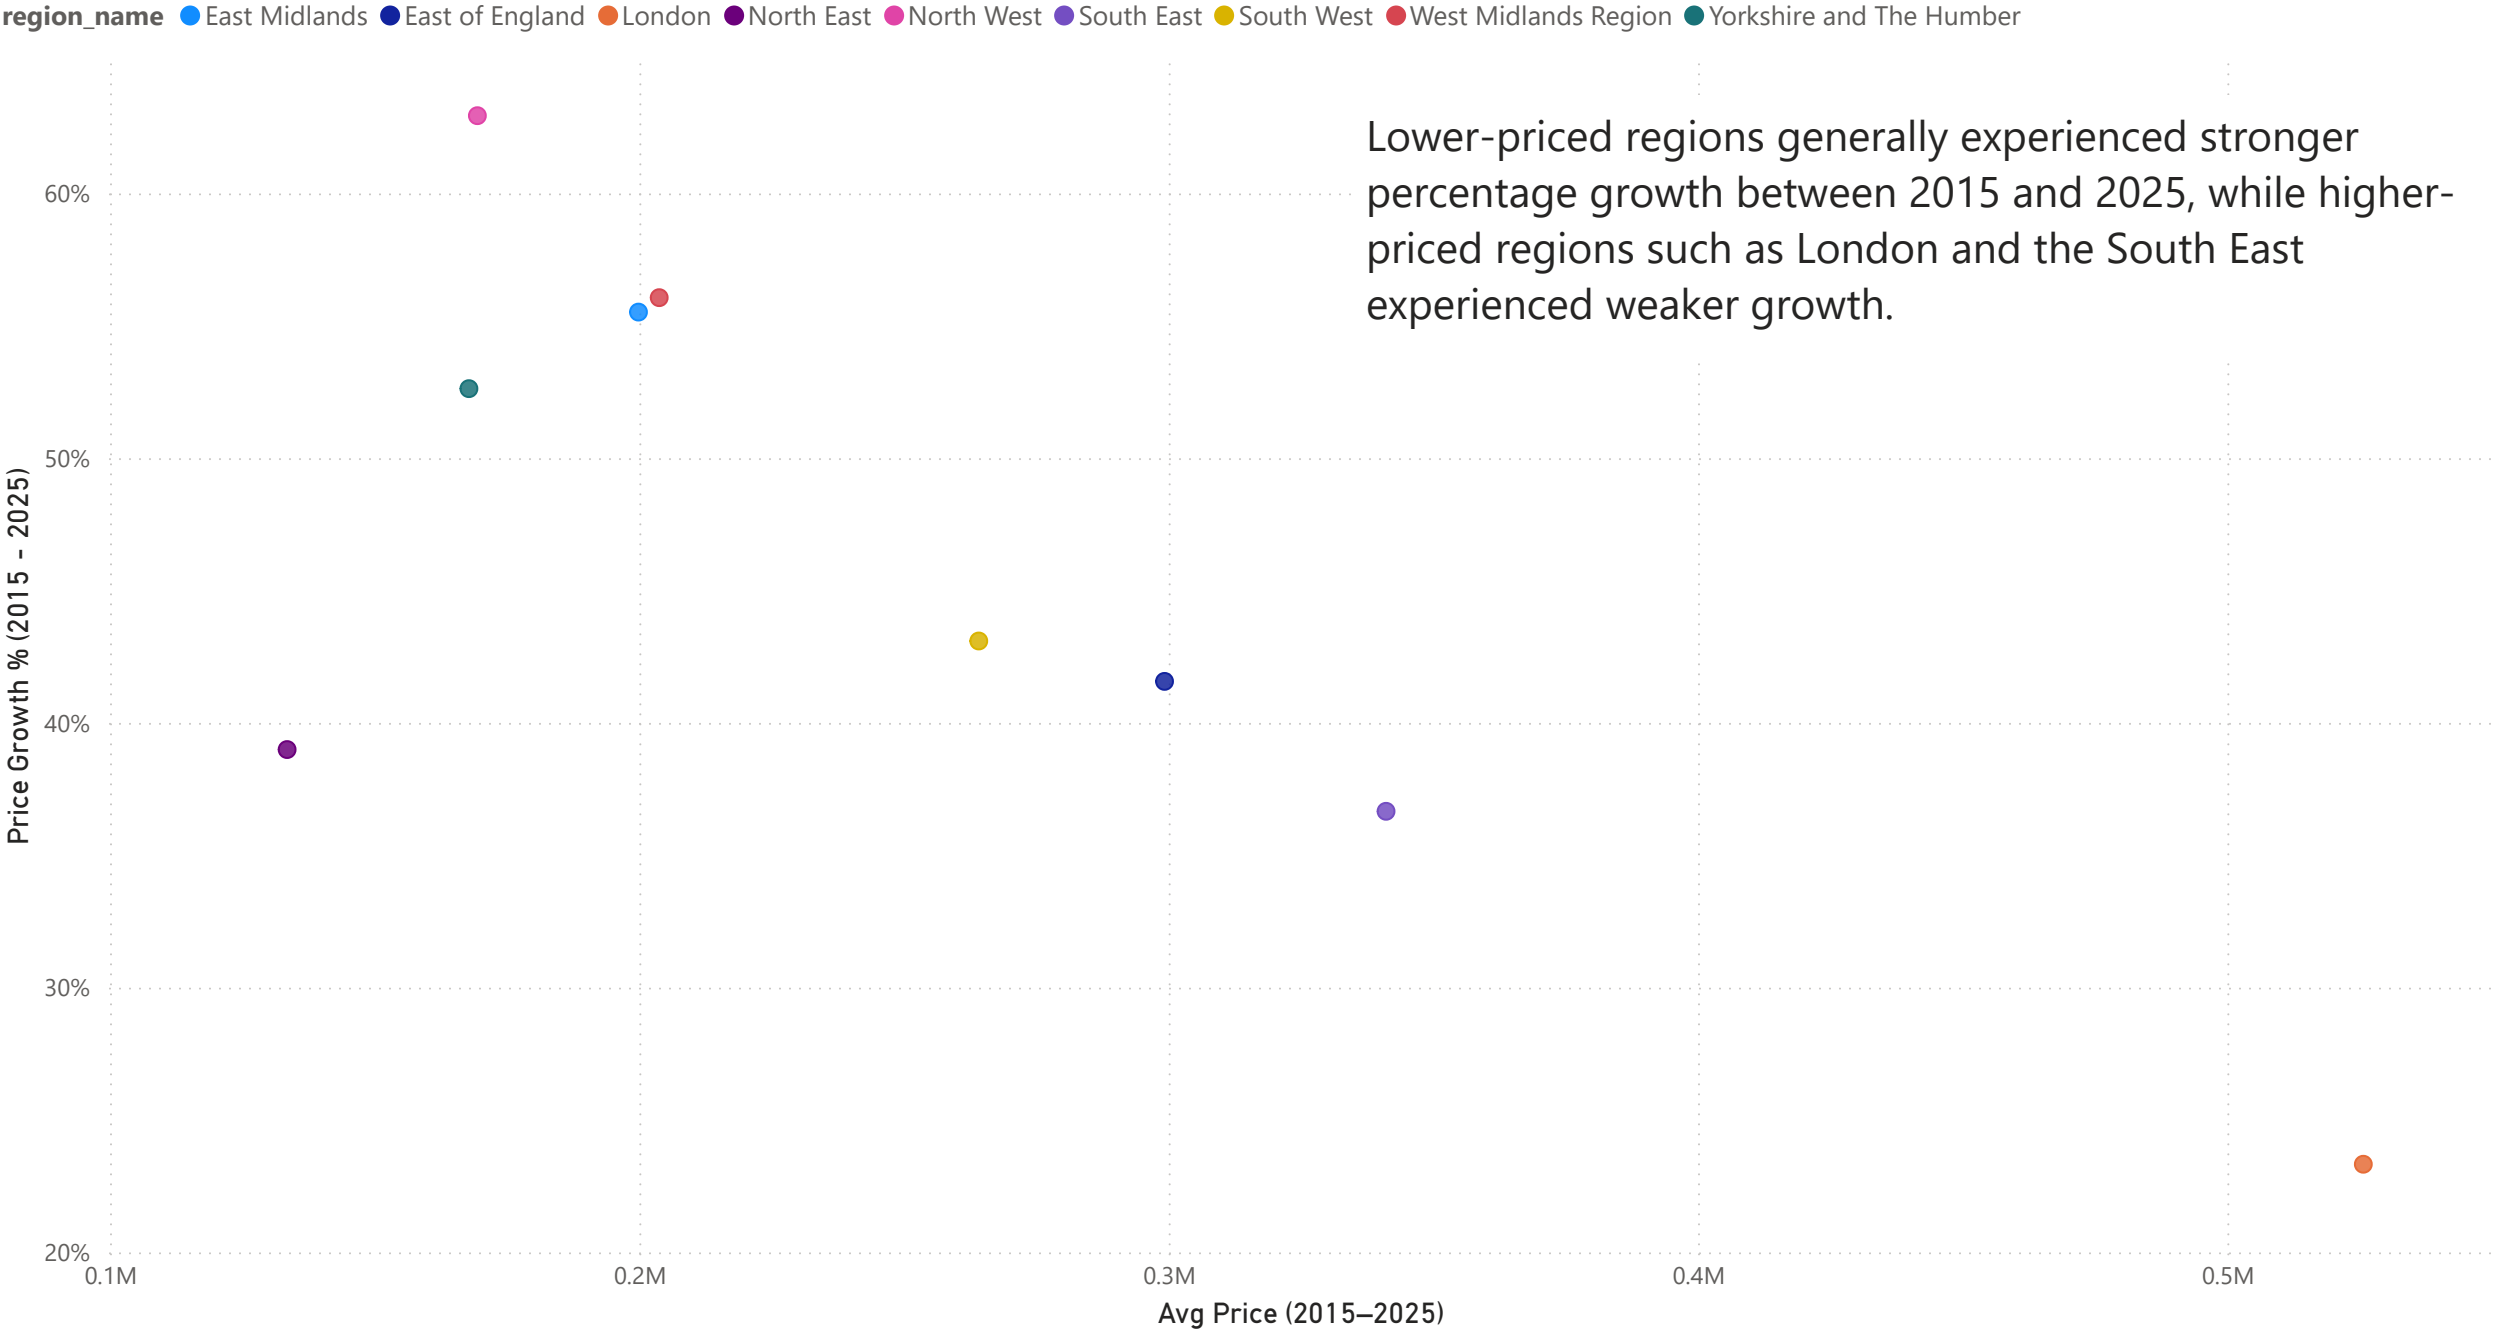

New-Build Price Premium by Region in England (2025)

Housing Sales Volume by Region in England (2015 - 2025)

Average House Price vs Price Growth by Region (2015 - 2025)

- region_name
- East Midlands
 - East of England
 - London

Detached houses remained London's most expensive property type and showed the largest absolute increase, while flats and maisonettes experienced comparatively weaker growth and declined after their 2022 peak.

London House Price Trends by Property Type (2015 - 2025)

